Tim. Howard suffered for three years with lung and throat troubles, and last spring was thought by his neighbors to be dying. I heard of his condition and gave him A. B. C. Tonic, its effect was magical. In a very short time he was able to leave his bed, and now regards himself a well man. Others in this vicinity have taken the "Tonic" with pronounced benefit.

> Mr. Labouchere, editor of The London Truth, after noting that probably not one in twenty of the persons who indulge in bathing on a holiday can swim, proceeds to tell his readers how to acquire the accomplishment. His advice is offered to men, but it is as applicable to the ladies, as advicegenerally a very cheap commodity— usually is. "Nothing," he says, "is more easy than swimming. When the in the atmosphere made their hair air is out of the body its owner sinks; stand on end like the quills of a fretful when the air is in the body its owner floats. Let any one slowly draw in his breath as he draws back his legs and pushes forward his arms, retain it while he is preparing for the stroke which is to propel him, and slowly allow it to go through his lips as his arms are passed back from before his head to his sides and his legs are stretched out.

"The action of the stroke should not be quite horizontal, but should be made on a slight incline downward. The real reason why people take weeks to learn how to swim is because swimming professors either do not know or do not choose to teach the philosophy of breathing so as to render the body buoyant. I would engage to make any one a tolerable swimmer in an hour, unless he be a committal idiot."

An English paper asserts that there is a titled lady whose chief pleasure is found in exhibiting her muscular powers in her own drawing room to a circle of admiring and astonished friends. Attired in a long and clinging gown, she lies down at full length upon the floor, with arms held closely to her sides. A friend is then requested to fasten her skirts securely around Office with GRAY & BOSWELL, Jefferson Street.
